

DEVIN NEW

CONSULTANT AND RESEARCHER

“Inspirational leaders that are dedicated to mentoring and growing others are the key to organizational success. I was drawn to Arlington’s focus on understanding an organization’s values to ensure they will be matched with leaders that will transform, inspire and make a difference. I am thrilled to contribute to the Arlington approach, and to assist organizations in reaching their potential while championing diversity of thought.”

Devin New is a Consultant and Researcher at Arlington Partners International providing integrated support to Arlington’s leadership team as well as coordinating projects to deliver the highest calibre research foundation and client service. Devin is responsible for supporting a wide range of practice areas including Retail and Consumer Products, Pharmaceutical and Life Sciences, Professional and Legal Services, Real Estate, and Energy and Environmental, and supports searches across all industry sectors across North America.

Devin is enthusiastic about connecting leaders and organizations to tailored strategies that allow them to reach their potential and generate change. She actively seeks out opportunities to research creative solutions and build relationships with clients to ensure their continual development. Devin also supports the research and editing initiatives of Arlington’s magazine. ARLINGTON is an annual magazine distributed globally to our network providing thought leadership and insights into key business and governance issues. It highlights leaders who are making an inspirational mark and difference in their industry sectors, organizations and communities on both sides of the border and beyond.

Prior to joining the Arlington team, Devin worked in the Knowledge Services branch at the Ontario Securities Commission, where she provided research services for legal counsel and accountants in areas of governance and business and securities law. She brings extensive experience to Arlington, providing client service and support in a wide range of sectors.

Devin earned her Bachelor of Arts in Film, Cinema and Video Studies from the University of Calgary and graduated from the University of Toronto with a Master of Information with a dual focus on Library and Information Science and Knowledge Management and Information Management.
