

RYAN MARHAMAT

RESEARCHER AND PROJECT COORDINATOR

“As a strong believer in the blend of integrity and change, I take pride in joining the Arlington Partners team. Arlington is a unique and efficacious firm that allows great leaders and businesses to design their own next chapters through extraordinary services that support organizational and business growth, while standing tall on pillars of honesty, transparency and integrity.”

Ryan Marhamat is a Researcher and Project Coordinator at Arlington Partners International. Ryan works closely with the Chief Executive Officer and Arlington’s Corporate Practice team, providing support through active research, project coordination and key administrative support for a highly active practice area within the firm, including actively engaging in a series of crucial board and CEO research, including business development and data base projects to drive the firm’s continued growth.

Ryan’s background is comprised of a variety of experiences, extracurricular initiatives, and roles in areas of politics, charity and community, and athletics. As a former Prefect at Upper Canada College, Ryan’s leadership stems from his passion for the community with over 500 hours in community service, specifically in the areas of athletic coaching and charity events such as volunteering for a University of Toronto immigrant scholarship event in collaboration with Deputy Prime Minister and Minister of Finance, Chrystia Freeland. Another charitable initiative Ryan is involved with is his position as the Director of Public Relations of Blue Hearts Charity, where he executes outreach efforts and social media campaigns to annually facilitate over ten thousand dollars in donations.

Ryan’s interest and extracurricular initiatives in politics include competing in international Model UN conferences where he has won four of the largest and most prestigious conferences in the world. Additionally, Ryan has experience working as an appointed supervisor of canvassing operations for the Canadian Federal Government where he managed and oversaw volunteers, as well as volunteering for a Canadian Government Election cycle, where he was appointed as Deputy Returning Officer. Ryan also has a rich athletic background as a competitive swimmer, exemplifying his dedication and commitment to excellence as he trains to qualify for the Summer 2028 Olympic games.

Ryan attends Western University’s Ivey Business School in its HBA program and is studying Economics and Business.
